Special Products

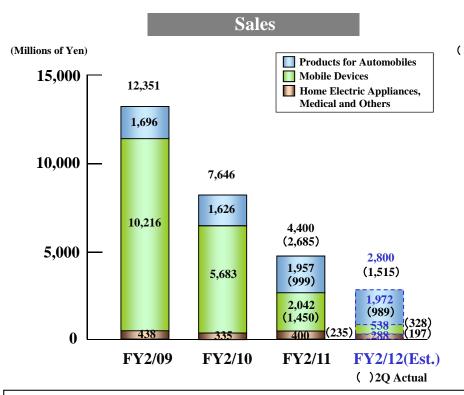

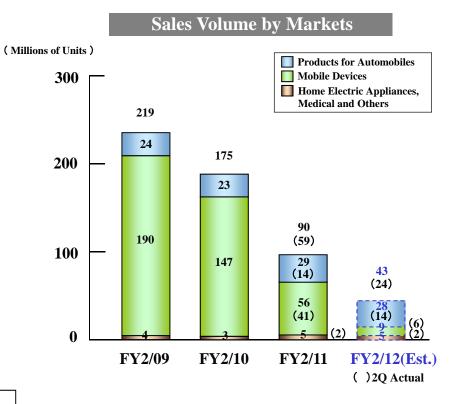

- •Sales declined temporarily in the Americas toward the end of the first half, despite strong demand in South America and demand continuing to recover in North America.
- In the Chinese market, sales growth was stymied by a decline in thermal printers, although dot-matrix printers enjoyed surging demand.
- •Sales in the European market are lower due mainly to financial concerns in southern Europe and political turmoil in the Middle East, overshadowing a recovery in demand centered on Germany.

Components

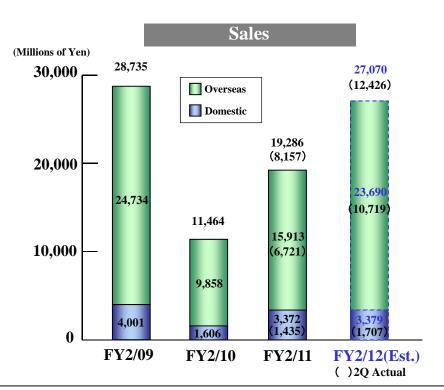

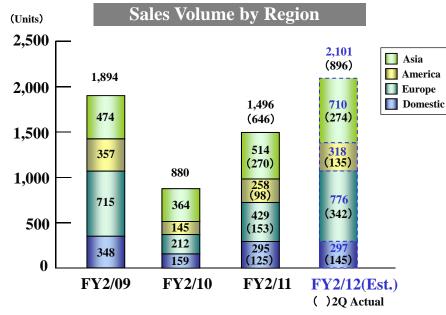

- •Sales of products to the automobile market were on a par with the same period a year earlier, owing to production cutbacks by automakers in the wake of the Great East Japan Earthquake.
- Sales of components for mobile phones and the like contracted sharply, reflecting the handling of fewer low-margin products.

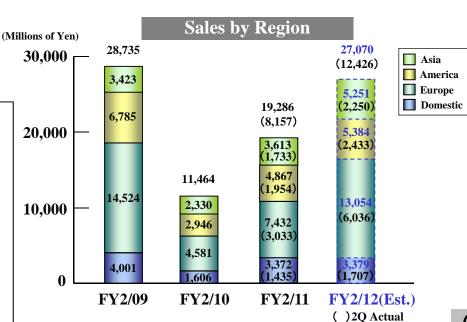

Machine Tools

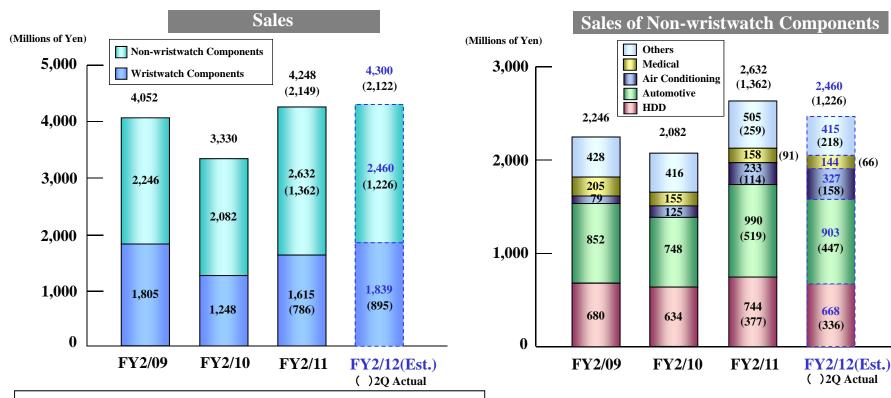

- Sales in the European market increased substantially due to increased capital investment among companies in export-related sectors, tracking a recovery in exports triggered by a weaker euro.
- Sales in the U.S. market increased from a pickup in capital investment that was seen not only in medical-related sectors, but in the automobile sector as well.
- Sales in the Asian market are higher, as growth in East Asian markets is joined by robust capital investment in automobiles and motorcycles in Southeast Asian markets.

Precision Products

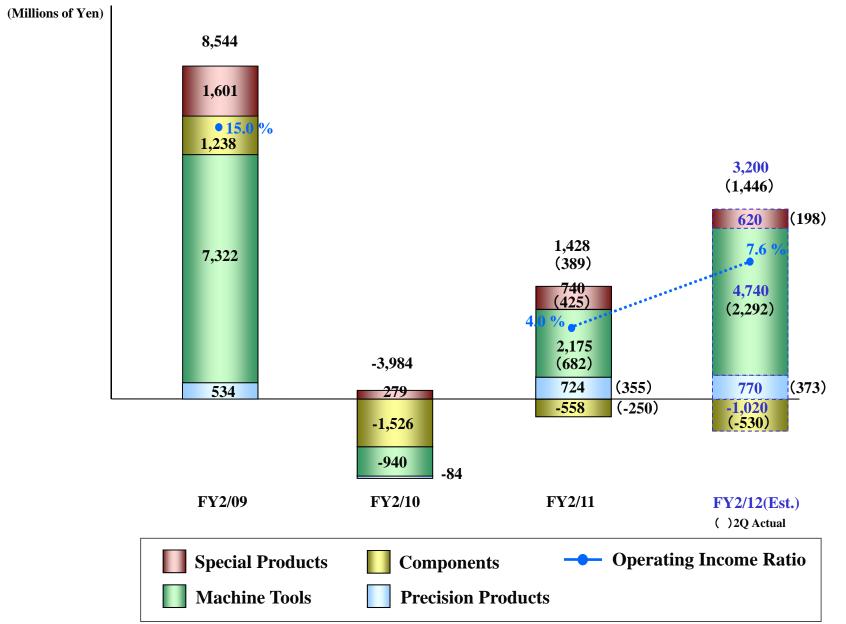

- Sales of wristwatch components increased as sales held firm among Japanese wristwatch makers, as they mounted a prompt recovery from the Great East Japan Earthquake.
- Non-wristwatch components saw sales of car audio components decline, primarily due to model changes among target customers and the impact of the earthquake and tsunami. Sales of HDD components declined, partly because unit sales prices fell in Japan and overseas.
